Where to put detergent in bosch washing machine

International Journal of Consumer Studies ISSN 1470-6423.Sustainability is a guiding principle for a responsible, future-oriented 21st century lifestyle and this already begins in private households with daily household tasks.Consumer behaviour plays an essential role in practising sustainability on a daily basis.Bonn University provides the rationale for the scientific study of current practices of using washing machines and for a resulting estimate of the latent energy-saving potential in households. The results of this study show that washing machines tend to be under-loaded, and therefore maximum loading of the machines could lead to a reduction of wash cycles per household.With respect to detergent dosage, it was determined that the consumer does not adjust the dosage to the textile type, load size, soil level and/or water hardness, and this can lead to under- or overdosing depending on prevailing conditions.The results from the scientific consumers' laundry practices study from Bonn University show that consumers are not using the correct amount of detergent for their laundry in comparison to the recommended amount shown on the packaging. By using the correct amount of detergent, this could save the consumer 38% of detergent per year. This may be one of the dumbest questions posted but I have an explanation: we just moved into our renovated apartment (thanks GW, for tons of info in the course of the reno!) and I can't find the owner's manual for the washer. It's a Bosch WAS2016UC. I downloaded the manual from Bosch but still can't figure it out! There are three compartments in the pull-out dispenser: the left one has a "II" mark, the middle one has a sort of flower mark and the right one has "I" on it. Does anyone know where is for what? (I think the middle one is for fabric softener.) Also, can you use liquid bleach? And, if so, where does that go? (In my search for this information I've been really horrified to read about all the negatives experiences with this washer due to mold and smell. I am really hoping for the best here. The new GE OTR micro has a "broken computer panel" and the KA DW was a nightmare getting into place. I'm kind of at my wits end.) Thanks to all for any info. What are the 3 compartments in a washing machine drawer? You might have noticed the three compartments of our respective best washing machine brand in india. Different models come with different looks. One must be aware of placing detergent powder/ liquid into the right compartment at the right time. Doing so enhances gentle wash and results in achieving high performance. Today we are going to learn the 3 compartments determining the importance of it too. For having a quick or better understanding, there are symbols printed at each compartment. Seeing that can make a difference between the three and add the detergent accordingly. Also, these symbols indicate none other than the options called main wash, pre-wash, and fabric softener respectively. Make sure you are going to pick the best quality laundry detergent powder/ liquid. Let us now spot the actual usage of these three compartments of our respective washing machines. Here we go learn the importance or determine related to the three compartments provided in a clear and better understandable format. Also, the types pertaining to different models. Prewash Compartment This option is applicable when the clothes were very dirty or totally unclean. This allows to rinse the whole laundry before entering the wash option. It is labeled as either with 1 or I indicating a prewash compartment. In other words, people use this particular compartment to starch the entire laundry successfully. Fabric Softener One must place the fabric softener in the compartment indicating the option with * symbol respectively. Through this option, all the laundry turns smooth or soft enough. But make sure that you have not placed higher than the line indicated with the Max option. In simple and short, this compartment designed especially for additives, fragrances, starch, brightness, and many more. Also, do not forget that you have included liquid detergent into this particular compartment labeled with the * symbol. Main Wash Compartment In must use the detergent powder filling into this particular compartment. Moreover, labeled as II or 2 respectively. One of the most frequently used compartments is none other than called for the main wash compartment. Also, the amount of detergent powder must be placed on how dirty the laundry is. Do not forget that the level or amount of detergent is placed as per the dosage mentioned on it. Till now we might have learned what exactly the 3 compartments used for. Let us move to learn the one's respective machine drawer available for a different model. Type I Detergent Machine Drawer As discussed, the three compartments of the type I model provided right below. Have a look and try to understand the importance of each option available in it. Main Wash Compartment: Preferred for main wash, pre-soaking feature, bleach or stain remover respectively. Prewash Compartment: Detergent either used for prewash or performing the starch to the whole laundry. Softener Compartment: Fabric Softener only. Also, Check Articles on Washing Machines Type II Detergent Machine Drawer This works the same but the design included in these type II models is different. As such both prewash and fabric softener was completely partitioned. Main Wash Compartment: Preferred for main wash, pre-soaking feature, bleach, or stain remover respectively. Prewash Compartment: Detergent either used for prewash or performing the starch to the whole laundry. Softener Compartment: Fabric Softener only. Auto-Dispense Unit Models having auto-dispense units look forward to dispensing the amount of both fabric softener into the drum and detergent specified as per the course mentioned right there. Hopefully, the data updated here is totally clear and understandable. Whoever confused about the three compartments of one particular machine or not aware of them, just simply looking out here helps you to differentiate and understand them successfully. Therefore, if you like the article and thought it is very helpful, keep sharing through any of the social networking sites. Thank you. Ray Massey/Getty On the days you just can't hand wash or spot clean another thing, remember that you have a major time-saving machine in your house. Lots of things, like these eight items, can be tossed in the washer. Just be sure to check any care tags or manufacturer guidelines first. 1. Stuffed animals If your son's favorite teddy bear looks like he's been mud wrestling, give him a bath in the washing machine on a gentle cycle. Secure any loose strings, remove any "clothing," and place the toy in a mesh bag or pillowcase for added protection. Don't forget to check the care tag (it he has one). Certain furs might not be washable, and the same goes for a toy stuffed with small foam balls, like Beanie Babies. 2. Sneakers Wash canvas or nylon tennies (like Keds — avoid putting leather or athletic shoes in the washing machine) in cold water to prevent any warping, and throw in an old towel to prevent them from knocking around too much in the machine. Remove the insoles and laces if you can, and wash those separately. 3. Pillows Good news: If your pillows are down or fiberfill, you can clean them in the washing machine. Use a gentle cycle with warm water, but always read the care label first. 4. Backpacks or lunch bags Although you might not think to check, some backpacks can be washed in a front-loading washing machine (and throw in your soccer star's stinky shin guards, too). Turn the bag inside out and remove metal parts, if you can, and know that any bejeweled elements or decals might not withstand the spinning. Place the bag in a pillowcase to protect it, and wash on a gentle cycle. RELATED: 8 Ingenious Laundry Room Ideas » 5. Rubber-backed rugs These no-skid mats get a lot of foot traffic, and can quickly become dirty instead of decorative. If your rug is made of cotton or synthetic fibers, you can throw it in the washing machine along with bath towels. Wash in cold water on the gentle cycle, and don't clean them too often: The rubber backing can't withstand weekly trips to the laundry room. 6. Curtains Save yourself the chore of hand washing as you refresh your windows. Unless your curtains are made of a delicate material, they can likely be washed on a slow-spin cycle in cool water. 7. Chair pads Bring your patio furniture out of hibernation. Wash one chair pad at a time, use the gentle cycle, and make sure your machine has enough space — if you're forcing the pads to fit inside (they may not fit if your machine has an agitator), to wash them by hand instead. 8. Car mats After months of carpooling, your mats need a thorough cleaning. Pretreat them with a stain remover, like Shout Advanced Gel, and wash them with your normal detergent.
